After a workshop that Pink has organised things finally started moving. Today we have had our first workshop with some key vendors (Intel, Cisco, Symbol and Microsoft) and a group of PoR people (total 8 people). In this workshop we did a mapping of our solutions against a reference architecture. From a Microsoft perspective everything fell into place; this process allows us to position the whole platform with buy in from the client. Document approval workflow started in email

Serial or parallel approval processes

I just wrapped up my final analysis of Litware's quarterly financial results and rolled them into the latest Litware Revenue Note. Once you've approved this doc, I'll send it off to the publishing group. The pub guys and gals have been notified. They've set time aside on the press to do the print run on this so it's paramount we get this all approved by EOD Tuesday.
